Mazzeo Of The Boston Symphony Pursues His Vacation Hobby Here

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

Music and birds have taken Rosario Mazzeo to 41 countries of the world during the past quarter century and more, but it's a third interest, photography, which brings him back to Carmel for a month or two every summer.

Mazzeo, who is bass clarinet soloist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, first came here to compare photographic notes with the late Edward Weston. Now the musician and the photographer's son Brett are friends and camera companions.

Back home in Boston, where he is also personnel manager of the orchestra, Mazzeo is a director of the Massachusetts Audubon Society and has been chairman of the board of overseers of the Hathaway School of Conservation, owned and operated by the society.

That a full-time professional musician has time for manifold outside interests is all the more surprising because the Boston orchestra, with an operating budget larger than any other symphonic group in the world (about one and a half million per year), also has the longest season. It's active 46 weeks of the year.

This can't leave much time for mountain climbing—he has scaled many of the peaks on this continent and climbed Mt. Hekla in Iceland amid spectacular lava flows about six years after its eruption—and for book collecting. (He collects mostly volumes on natural history and ornithology, favors fiction with a nature setting and has named his 17-month-old daughter Rima for the beloved woodsprite of W. H. Hudson.)

During his 25-year career as a musician under the batons of Koussevitsky and Munch, the clarinetist has also played with virtually all the other notable conductors of our times.

He calls Reiner a "very exciting" conductor and spoke of

Police Checking Clues In Edgren Murder Case

Police Chief Clyde Klaumann reports intensive checking and interviewing is still being carried on by Carmel Police in an endeavor to check out all leads in the murder of Mrs. Robert W. Edgren, who was discovered strangled in an upstairs bedroom of her home at Torres Street and Ninth Avenue on August 25.

Two experts, Harry Cooper and Roy Lewis, of the California Identification and Investigation Bureau in Sacramento have been assisting local police. Cooper took material from the house to Sacramento early this week and is now back in Carmel for further work on the Edgren case. Lewis has returned to Sacramento.

Mrs. Edgren, 83, was the widow of Robert W. Edgren, sports cartoonist and editor. Her son, Dr. Robert W. Edgren, Jr., is a professor of psychology at Mills College. She was a familiar Carmel figure who always wore hand-knit outfits and, it was rumored, carried large sums of money.

AMBULANCE MAKES CALL

Barbara Critz, San Carlos Street and Eleventh Avenue, was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital in the Red Cross ambulance, operated by Carmel volunteer firemen, who answered an emergency medical call to her home at 12:28 o'clock this morning.

Frustration Is Norberg's Lot On May Night

Last night's city council meeting was May Day at city hall, or more dolefully Norberg Frustration Night. Councilman Everett May was full of ideas and proposals, all of which were warmly received by his fellow councilmen. Councilman Gunnar Norberg saw two of his cherished projects railroaded back to committee, his Carmel Arts Commission and his Carmel Forestry Commission.

The arts commission was scheduled for ordinance second reading, which with any other council would mean that he had it made. But Francis Whitaker produced a petition signed by a galaxy of ex-city councilmen, former mayors and retired planning commissioners, also by influential artists, writers, plumbers, theatrical producers and merchants, 47 names in all.

The objection was not to the arts commission, though Mr. Whitaker has publicly expressed his unfavorable opinion, but to the provision in the ordinance to include voting members on the board who are non-residents of the city. "We believe that voting membership of all boards and commissions should be reserved to the resident electors of the City of Carmel," the petition stated.

The mayor said it was established custom to include people in our zone of interest on Carmel commissions. Gunnar Norberg pointed out that one member of the Carmel Planning Commission, a valuable one, is not a Carmel resident. Then May, who has served with Norberg on the committee to form the arts commission, shocked Norberg by saying: "I'm beginning to feel along with the petitioners," and proposed that non-Carmel residents be invited to serve in an advisory capacity as non-voting members.

Norberg, who sits next to May, said something inaudible to the rest of the world, and May flared up saying that he's willing to reverse his vote any time in light of new evidence. Norberg looked startled and said there was nothing personal in his remark. After this Councilman James Buffington and Allen Knight said they had open minds on the issue.

Oh, Joy! Council Meetings In Our Woodsy Streets

The Carmel City Counicl decided last night that it would hold one peregrination meeting a month, on Tuesday, concurrent with its tree inspection tour.

Ever since there has been a Carmel city, the council has gone on tree tour the afternoon of the day before the regular council meeting to look at the trees people have requested permission to trim or remove. At the Wednesday night council meeting the council takes official action on these requests. It is required by ordinance that no city tree may be trimmed or removed unless the council has given such permission, and council cannot act except in official meeting.

Last night the council members decided that it was duplication to look at a tree on Tuesday and act on it in meeting Wednesday night. Why couldn't they act on it when they looked at it?

City Attorney John Morse said they could if they called their tree tour a special meeting, and the council enthusiastically agreed to try out the idea.

The city clerk will furnish the Pine Cone with a list of trees to be visited on the designated day. He will also notify the petitioners that the council will visit their trees of interest at a certain time and to be on hand for the inspection-decision.

The citizens, with advance notice, can visit the trees any time during the week and appear on the scene to protest if they do not wish it removed.

The drama of it all! Gathered in the street around the defendant tree are the property-owner prosecutor, the defender neighbors, the interested public. Up rolls the official caravan: five councilmen, the city clerk (you can't have an official meeting without minutes) city building inspector Floyd Adams with the tape recorder, and the eager press.

The prosecutor-property owner cries: "Look at this big old pine encroaching on my driveway. Look what I have to do to get my car in and out, and"—with gestures—"just look at the dents in my fenders." And the scars on the tree bark. "What are you going to do about it?".

Now in the inefficient old leisurely days the council would say, "Madam, we'll think it over and render our decision at the council meeting tomorrow night."

Tomorrow night, secure behind their tables and railing, and with the petitioner probably not present anyway, the council would say: "This tree does not offer an exceptional obstruction. The petitioner should learn to drive. Request denied."

But now, we are to have an efficient, time-saving caravan meeting with decisions on the spot.

"What are you going to do about it?" she demands.

Our councilmen, gallant gentlemen all—

The tree defenders now break into disorderly protest. The mayor has brought his gavel along to rap for order but what is he going to rap for order on? Perhaps the city clerk should include in his notice to the petitioner a request to haul the garbage can around front.

City Council Queries Water Co. On Plans For New City Mains

The Carmel City Council will decide at its October meeting whether or not the city will officially support the Monterey Peninsula Municipal Water District proposition on the November 4 ballot.

At the council meeting last night, Councilman Everett May put in a plug for the municipal district. Councilman Gunnar Norberg took issue. Mayor John Chitwood, perceiving that this was neither the time nor place for such discussion, suggested that City Attorney John Morse prepare a resolution approving the proposition for the councilmen to vote on at next month's meeting.

Occasion for May's plug arose out of discussion about sending a letter to the California Water and Telephone Company, asking what is the company's schedule for laying additional and larger mains in Carmel. The letter points out that no improvement in the water system has been made in the Carmel central business district in 20 years; the area has been built up tremendously, and for the fire protection of the community, larger mains and greater water pressure are needed. In a recent survey, it continues, the fire underwriters recommended six inch pipe to supply fire hydrants. While the council's main concern is safety, there is also the matter of fire insurance costs. Deficiency points traceable to lack of proper water supply kept the Carmel Fire Department in the Class 5 rating. "This means

Corum Jackson Represents Carmel On Truth About Water Committee, Opposes Unlimited Taxing Powers

Formation of a Truth About Water Committee to oppose establishment of a Monterey Peninsula Municipal Water District at the November 4 election was announced today by Mayor Dan Searle, of Monterey, general chairman of the committee.

Searle said that each area of the Peninsula is represented on the committee's executive council. Members of this group are: Corum Jackson, realtor, of Carmel; Arch Balchin, retired business executive, of Pacific Grove; Bessie Kramer and Tom Dorney, city council members of Seaside; Herb Brownell, realtor, of Carmel Valley; Ben O'Hara, of Del Rey Oaks; Clyde Young, former Monterey auto dealer, representing Pebble Beach; and Art Berg, operator of a tire service in Monterey, representing the Country Club area where he lives.

Searle said that the executive council would lead a campaign to secure mass membership in the Truth About Water Committee and direct the presentation of information to voters in the period before election day.

"We believe that the establishment of another overlapping tax agency with unlimited power to tax represents a danger to the future development of the Monterey Peninsula," Searle said.

"The promoters of this water district scheme are attempting to conceal their real purpose behind a smoke screen of calling for fur-

TOURNAMENT ACTION AT CARMEL YOUTH CENTER

Youth Center Director Jack Giles is winding up an action-packed summer of activities with a flurry of tournaments which are designed to select champions in the gentle art of horseshoe pitching, table tennis, and Abalone League-style softball play.

Winner of the Don Sand's trophy in the horseshoe tournament was Nick Vertin who threw 25% ringers to edge Mal Burdis for the title. Mike Elsen clipped Gary Clay to cop third place but Gary went on to win the consolation title.

Play in the Keith McKenzie Memorial Table - Tennis Tournament starts next week with Mal Burdis back to defend the championship. Over 30 paddle-wielders are out after Burdis in this year's tournament and the action should be hot and heavy.

80 PADRES REPORT FOR OPENING PRACTICE SESSION

Carmel High's opening football practice on Tuesday afternoon brought out 80 candidates who went through a two-hour session of grass drills, fundamentals, and running. All agreed it had been a long summer and the showers were a welcome sight when coaches Fred Rainer and George Mosolf called a halt to the wind-sprints. The 80 prospects will more than likely swell to closer to a hundred when school officially opens on September 15. In the first week's action, there will be no effort made to divide the players into varsity, junior - varsity, and lightweight squads, but the emphasis will be on fundamentals and conditioning. Next Monday, a 33-man varsity squad will be selected and the remaining candidates will man the lightweight and junior-varsity teams.

Returning varsity lettermen who answered the call Tuesday afternoon were Cim Conway, a two-year letterman at quarterback; Dennis Peavey, a two-year letterman at halfback; Dare Conroy, a one - year letterman at fullback; Bill Hicks, a one-year letterman at end; Phil White, a one-year letterman at end; Norman Colman, a one-year letterman at tackle; Al Eaker, a one-year letterman at guard; Steve Gann, a one-year letterman at center; and Dave Vincent, a one-year letterman at center. Sam Farr, a monogram-winning tackle last season, has been delayed in Europe and will not report for practice for a few days. Hal Gregerson, one of the best blocking linemen in the league last season, will be missing from the Padre campus this year, having moved to Palo Alto. Hal was a shoo-in for an all-league berth this season and he will be sorely missed by the Padres. Help from the all - winning junior - varsity was apparent in the first day's workout with such good ones as Harrison Hilbert, Van Treat,, Andy Elliott, Jamie Holman, Russell Wise, Nick Vertin, Deen Rowe, Ronnie Faia, Larry Dufur, Mike Marquard, John Wilkin, Chris Wilkin, Craig Smith, and Fritz Scheffer. Transfers Gary Preece and John Moffett showed good size and speed in the workout and should make a good bid for a varsity berth.

Coach Fred Rainer's junior-varsity crew is well-sprinkled with experienced holdovers from last season and enthusiasm is running high for another winning season. Sophomores back for more JV action are Paul Rice, 185-pound center; Toby Edson and Mike Dunham ends; Fred Bucher, fullback; Jim Cole, tackle; Brook Scherman, halfback; Bill Coleman, halfback; Leonard Wolff, fullback; Mike Draper, halfback; Frank Mayo, quarterback; Roger Diefendorf, guard; Nicky Molitor, tackle; and Doyle Clayton, end.

COAST COUNTIES FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

Opening of football practice and the opening of school goes hand-in-hand. The end-of-the-season cry, wait until next year, is now a reality. Taking a quick look at the grid prospects around the Coast Counties prep leagues it appears that both the B and A divisions of the CCAL will be more evenly-balanced than during the 1957 season. In the B-division, the top four appear to be King City, Gilroy, Hollister, and the defending champion Padres. Gilroy, with 20 returning lettermen, is given the nod by most of the experts around the league. The Mustangs have a complete starting backfield of Elbert Enos, Tom Ghirlanda, Ray Hanna, and Norman Bracco returning for action this season and the blue and white will be tough to catch. King City lost Coach Mike McCormack to Montana State College but have the personnel to develop into a winner. Terrific backfield speed plus the biggest line in the league makes King City a definite threat for the title. The Hollister Haybalers lost the big man in their attack, Chuck Alexander, but they retain 10 letter-winners for a 1958 nucleus. Being the largest school in the league, the 'Balers can wear down the small schools with their two-platoon system of football. Carmel will rely on 10 returning lettermen and a host of good junior-varsity players for a defense of the title. In Dennis Peavey, the Padres have the best all-around back in the league and the muscular senior could provide the leadership needed for a winner. At Pacific Grove, Charley Howell moves up from the jayvees to head varsity coach and his will be largely a rebuilding job. The Breakers lost 23 seniors via graduation last year and it may take a while for the inexperienced players to jell. Claire Burns, veteran Gonzales coach, reports his squad is well-equipped for speed but lacks the size of the other schools in the league. The Spartans are always good for a few upsets during the season and can't be counted out of the chase. Live Oak (Morgan Hill) is in its third year of football competion and is hungry for victory number one. A weak jayvee team last year will not be much help to this season's Acorn varsity. San Lorenzo Valley (Felton) enters league competition for the first time this year and will likely find the going pretty rough in the initial season. The Cougars have been free-lancing for several years and have whipped a few of the B-division teams in practice games. Coach Wayne Richards reports the school is growing and may surprise somebody.

In the A-division of the CCAL, it's Larry Seimmering's Santa Cruz Cardinals which draw the favorite spot. The wily ex-pro spent last season on a rebuilding job and is ready for the best in Northern California this year. Santa Cruz has booked some of the toughest teams in the area for practice games and is definitely shooting for a rating. Defending champion Salinas lost heavily by graduation but the biggest school in the league has a deep reserve. An enthusiastic coaching staff plus speed to burn will make the Cowboys dangerous. Monterey's Austin will be the best back in the league but Coach Danny Albert's job will be to give him the running room needed. The Toreadores, favored during the past two seasons could do an about-face and get the job done when not in the favorite's role. Coach Johnson's Watsonville squad must come a long way to match the other three schools in the league and the Wildcats will have to claw deep to get into the win column.

School Board Meets Tonight To Open Bids For New Shop

The Governing Board of the Carmel Unified School District meets tonight at 7:30 o'clock to open bids for construction of a shop building at the high school.

The new shop, estimated to cost $64,440, will be a 96 by 42 foot structure north of the existing shop and will have a concrete ramp on the east side for auto servicing.

Plans for the administration wing and remodelling the high school cafeteria are ready for approval of the state department of architecture, and the board will probably authorize a call for bids at their next regular meeting. They estimate that the cafeteria work should be completed by January 1. Meanwhile there will be no cafeteria service at the high school, but midmorning snacks will be available through coin operated vending machines.

Students must bring their lunch or either go home or eat downtown during the lunch hour. Principal Warren Edwards requests that parents, willing to have their children leave the campus to eat anywhere except at home, notify the high school to this effect.

At their meeting last Thursday the board accepted the H. C. Crocker Co. bid for 41 filing cabinets, $2,009, and the Appleton Construction Co. bid of $2,725 for resurfacing the high school tennis courts.

It was reported that eleven seniors of the district are attending Monterey High School at a tuition cost of around $400 each. Seven of them are transported by station wagon; the remainder are going to school in private cars.

The board awarded contracts to two new teachers, Miss Marie Rickard who will take Third and Fourth Grade at Carmelo. A graduate of Wesleyan University, she has been teaching fourth grade in Meridan, Connecticut. Miss Maureen Dyer, a resident of Carmel Valley, who has been teaching in the Monterey School system, will teach fifth grade at Tularcitos.

ART CONTEST ANNOUNCED FOR JAZZ FESTIVAL

Photographer Ansel Adams, Alfred Frankenstein, San Francisco Chronicle critic, and Alexander Fried, San Francisco Examiner art and music critic, will judge entries in the art contest to be held in connection with the Monterey Peninsula Jazz Festival, October 3, 4 and 5.

Work entered may represent any art medium, photos, paintings, sculpture, etc., but must have Jazz as the subject. Entries must be made on September 22 at the San Francisco Museum of Art, War Memorial, Civic Center, between 1:00 and 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Entries accepted for showing will be displayed at the Special Jazz Pavilion at the San Francisco Art Show, Fisherman's Wharf on September 26, 27 and 28 before being sent to the Monterey Jazz Festival.

Entry forms may be obtained by writing Jazz, Monterey. Prizes are to be announced later.

Jackson Represents Carmel In Truth About Water Comm.

ther study of political operation of water facilities," he continued. "The truth is that any taxing district once formed will always levy taxes. I am not familiar with any district having the power to tax which doesn't use it. This district has unlimited taxing power.

"The water district act, under which this district would be conducted by the directors, states that the board shall immediately appoint a secretary, treasurer, attorney, general manager and auditor and fix their compensation. This sounds like taxes to us. In addition they may issue bonds, borrow money and incur indebtedness.

"I was present when the financial consultants who studied this proposition made their report. They said the revenue would support a bond issue of $12,200,000 and assumed that the water company would be a willing seller.

"We now know that this was a mistaken assumption. The California Water and Telephone Company has since announced that its system is not for sale. This means that it can only be acquired by condemnation at a price to be set by the courts and this may be millions higher than the financial consultants estimated.

"After the weeks of study which were conducted I am personally convinced that acquisition of these water facilities is not financially feasible at the present water rates.

"It is obvious to us that this district means new additional taxes right away and a huge bond issue of unknown size later. We believe that these are threats to every property owner and everyone who rents a home on the Peninsula."

Carmel Artist Exhibits In S. F.

Abstract photographic prints by Mrs. Ruth Velissaratos of Carmel are included in a 4-man show at the San Francisco Museum of Art which opens on September 10, and continues through October 19.

The show demonstrates four degrees of photographic expression. Bill Maund's work is straight landscape photography, William R. Hawkens is more modern in his approach, Clyde Smith uses his camera to photograph abstract subjects, Mrs. Velissaratos produces pure abstractions entirely with dark room techniques. Each photographer is displaying 15 prints to demonstrate degrees of abstraction reached in photography.

Ralph Scott

Ralph Waldo Scott, son of Mrs. S.F.B. Morse, died on Saturday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Scott was born in Washington, D.C., on August 6, 1915. He served with distinction as a lieutenant commander in the Navy during World War II and was awarded the Silver Star for conspicuous gallantry by Admiral Chester Nimitz in recognition of his service in the Pacific theater.

Since the war, Mr. Scott, an electronics engineer, had been associated with RCA in the East and lived in New Jersey. He came here to live with his stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Morse, four months ago.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. June Manning Scott, seriously ill in a San Francisco hospital; and three children, Ralph Swearingen III and Sandra Swearingen of Los Angeles, children of a previous marriage before their father changed his surname to Scott, and Manning Scott of San Francisco.

Private funeral services were held on Tuesday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Henry Somerville

Henry B. Somerville, a resident of Carmel for 30 years, died last evening in his home at Ninth and Dolores Street after a lingering illness.

Mr. Somerville was born in Gisborne, New Zealand, on October 6, 1884.

He is survived by a sister, Miss Enid B. Somerville, and two brothers, Ilbert and Ernest S. Somerville, all of Carmel.

Funeral services will be announced later by Dorney and Farlinger Funeral Home.

NEED PRINTING?

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel MA 4-3881.

Mrs. Strong

Mrs. Onnolee Wyckoff Strong died on August 30 in a local hospital after a long period of failing health.

Mrs. Strong was born in Bar Harbor, Maine, on April 20, 1896. She was a graduate of Goucher College, Maryland, where she majored in education and was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

In 1941 she married Captain M. Strong, a master mariner, and with him, in 1944, came from Southern California to live in Carmel at Fourteenth Avenue and Monte Verde Street.

Captain Strong survives his wife. In addition, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Patricia Warner of Oakland; her brother, Dr. H. V. Wyckoff of Indiana; her stepmother, Mrs. Anne Wyckoff of Los Angeles; and a nephew, Peter Wyckoff of Sonora.

Funeral services, conducted by Dr. Joseph M. Ewing of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, were held on Tuesday morning. Inurnment will be in the North Grove Cemetery, Celina, Ohio.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Strong may do so in the form of donations to Guide Dogs for the Blind, San Rafael, California.

LIONS CLUB ROBBED

Padlocks on Lions Club parking lot coin boxes were broken open and an estimated $65 removed, according to the report given Carmel police by Lion Ernest Bixler yesterday. Rifling of the five meter boxes could have taken place any time during the past two weeks, said Mr. Bixler, as the boxes had not been checked during that time.

Apparently a bar or screwdriver had been used to pry the padlocks open. The boxes were not damaged and padlocks will be replaced. The Lions Club operates the parking lot behind and beside the Carmel Theater on Ocean Avenue as a means of raising funds for their youth welfare program.

Mrs. Newmark

Mrs. Josephine Mulvaney Newmark, who made her home here with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick N. Wilson, died on August 26 in a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Newmark was born in Frisco, Utah, on October 16, 1879. Her husband Herman Newmark died 38 years ago. She came to live here in 1914 and was a charter member of the Carmel Woman's Club and the Carmel Parent-Teacher Association, and a member of the first executive board of the Carmel Girl Scouts.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by two granddaughters, Neal and Sharon Wilson of Carmel, and a niece Mrs. Aetna S. Carpenter of Carmel, and several other nieces and nephews living elsewhere.

Private funeral services were held on August 27 in the Paul Funeral Chapel with the Reverend Kenneth L. Sandercock, vicar of St. James Episcopal Church, officiating. Inurnment followed in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Newmark may do so in the form of donations to the Monterey County Heart Associatioon, Box 1329, Monterey, or to the Monterey County chapter, American Cancer Research Society, Box 1028, Monterey.

Dorothy Granville

Mrs. Dorothy Ford Granville died last night in a local hospital after a long illness. She was a retired concert manager who came to live in Carmel six months ago, making her home at Seventh Avenue and San Antonio Streets.

Mrs. Granville was born in San Francisco on June 10, 1887. She is survived by a brother, Albert E. Ford of Santa Maria.

Funeral arrangements are pending and will be announced later by Mission Mortuary.

Gilbert Boyer Reports Adventures In Mexican Village Literacy Center

Case de Alfabetizacion
Valle de Bravo, Edo. de Mexico, Mex.
August, 1958.

Looking around at the quiet, yet intensely interested faces of the Mexican students at the Casa made me realize how important this literacy work is. Here are sixty or seventy Mexican farmers and laborers who up to six months ago could not read, coming into the center after a long hard day's work, tired out, they look forward eagerly to their reading and writing lessons. You can see the light of interest in their eyes as they learn how to read the Spanish words by association with pictures according to the system so successfully worked out by Dr. Frank Laubach in 263 languages.

Tom, in charge of the center, Casa de Alfabetizacion at Valle de Bravo, and Roland his assistant, both able and dedicated men, spark the program. They have trained eight volunteer assistants who come in and help on a part time basis.

Our volunteer activities here include Louise's doing authentic drawings for books for new literates—adults who are in the primary stage of reading, and beginning to discover the fascination of the infinite world of the printed page. These drawings have to achieve three purposes: they must be true enough to the customs and habits of the people not to be scoffed at; they must be attractive and appealing as an incentive to the new readers, and they must, where possible, plant subtle seeds for the improving of sanitation, health, and a better way of life. This is a challenging job and one which Louise is equal to. She has been quietly and unobtrusively sketching the people in their natural habitat and at their work.

I will tell you my activities, for this coming week. On Monday I see the director of the school of several hundred children to give him program notes for the piano program I will be playing for them. I have been helped in translating them into Spanish by one of the teachers at the Casa. The principal is giving these ten pages of program notes to the teachers who will have the children act out the stories and study something about the music before they hear it. It will be their first music appreciation program. The piano is a fairly good upright piano which is kept locked in the principal's office. Then later on in the week I play the program, giving the program notes in confident Spanish. Incidentally, I am spending more time practising the program comments than on the music program. The program is: Brazilian Children's Pieces by Pinto; Clair de Lune, Debussy; Revolutionary Etude, Chopin; Minuet and part of a sonata, Mozart; Solfegietto, K. P. E. Bach; Minute Waltz, Chopin; collection of Mexican songs for children to sing with piano, Little White Donkey, Ibert.

Another assignment is for me to write four short stories for new readers in Spanish, using only the 47 word vocabulary which they have completed on picture charts by Lesson 5. This is a challenge which I have started to meet and am enjoying tremendously. Can you imagine writing four interesting stories with suspense, climax, humor, with only 47 words not of your own choosing? Well, I'm finding that it can be done after tearing up many attempts.

I understand that one of my assignments also is to start teaching illiterate adults in the jail this

Poetry Magazine Devotes Edition To Miss Coolidge's Verse

The sixth supplementary edition of the Wisconsin Poetry Magazine, published in June by the Wisconsin Poetry Foundation, Wautwatosa, Wisconsin, has been received by Carmel friends of Helen Coolidge, former poetry editor of the Pine Cone, now a resident of Lyndon, Vermont. Contents of the issue are 36 poems by Miss Coolidge.

In 1941 Miss Coolidge published a volume of her verse, With Unclipped Wings, printed by the Pine Cone Press. She is an honorary member of the Mark Twain Society, the Eugene Field Society, and the Lyndon Poetry Guild. Her nephew Harold Aldrich still lives here. Her sister, Hazel Coolidge, a painter of miniatures on ivory, moved with her sister from Carmel to Vermont.

The supplementary edition of the Wisconsin Poetry Magazine is devoted to Miss Coolidge's poetry in recognition of her contribution in this field of American literature.

Spectators Invited To Folk Dance Fest At Carmel High Gym

Carmel's first folk dance festival in two years will take place Saturday evening, 8:00 o'clock, in the Carmel High School gymnasium.

Folk dancers throughout California are being invited to participate by Ace Smith, chairman of the Monterey Bay Regional Folk Dance Council, and the Monterey Peninsula Shindiggers, sponsors of the event.

Admission is free and spectators are welcome to watch the dancing, which will include exhibitions. The festival chairmen have planned an after-party with refreshments and added hours of folk dancing at the Monterey Peninsula [illegible], Webster and El Estero, Monterey.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel MA 4-3881.

How to do it better with WATER

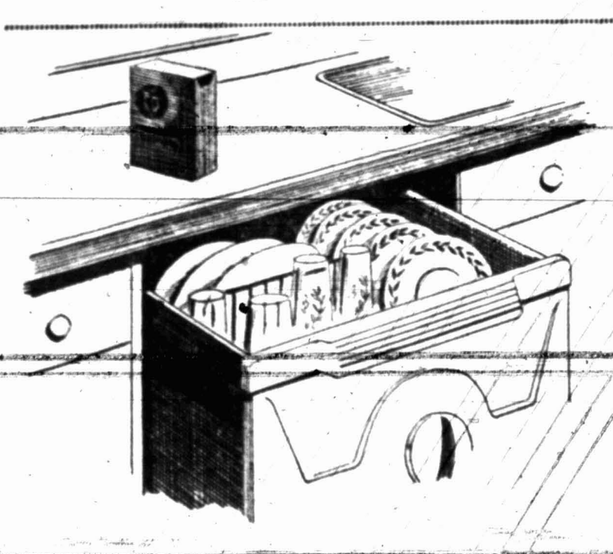
DISHWASHING MADE
EASIER THAN EVER...

If you really want to give water a chance to work more efficiently—and save yourself hours of work—be sure to look into the new automatic dishwashers. They're better than ever!



With these new modern servants you can use much hotter water than by hand washing. And the new dishwashers give extra rinses—clean just about everything better, including pots and pans. There are many types to choose from, including free-standing models, counter top types that work without electricity and the sink attachments that replace your faucets.

The constant improvement in dishwashers and appliances is stimulated by competition. While ours is not a competitive business, we feel that regulation is a substitute for competition. A State Commission must approve our water rates and the income we may produce for our investors. And in our constant need for new capital to finance construction and improvements, we do face stiff competition from unregulated industries that earn at a much higher rate than we do.

Plaxton's Bad Boys Are Under Boom, 25 Percent Worth

City License and Tax Collector Art Plaxton got ready this week to "lower the boom" on his "bad boys." City business license taxes became delinquent August 30. Seventy-two percent of the anticipated revenue has come in, but there are always a certain number of procrastinators, forgetters, and fellows who were out of town or have a sick wife. The latter will receive mercy, if they can prove their extenuating circumstances, but Mr. Plaxton's just plain bad boys will have to pay a 25 percent penalty for their tardiness.

"It costs money to send out delinquency notices, telephone, and delay closing the books," he explains.

And he's hoping for that 35 cents this year. Last year he collected $35,999.65. "All I needed to have $36,000 was 35 cents. It just about broke my heart."

In October, Tax Collector Plaxton will go to Sacramento to look at the state sales tax records and check them with his license tax returns. Most of the city business license tax is based on the merchants' declared gross receipts, which should correspond with their sales tax returns to the state.

"Carmel business men are highly ethical, I have found," says Mr. Plaxton. "But it's time to make a check, anyway."

Town Topics . . .

Halos are a penny apiece. Village blacksmith and ex-councilman Francis Whitaker has made five and a half halos for city council members at the order of the Pine Cone. His bill is itemized as follows:

"5½ Halos — .01 each ..... .05½
(slightly tarnished after last Wednesday, Aug. 27)
Total ..... .05½

On August 21 the Pine Cone asked Mr. Whitaker to make five bronze halos for the city council, full scale ones for Mayor John Chitwood and Councilman Allen Knight; half halos for Councilman Gunnar Norberg and Everett May, and a double halo for Councilman James Buffington, after the council reduced Carmel city property tax rate 5½ cents and approved a three percent cost of living raise for city employees.

Carmel planning commissioners are verbally patting Ted Kezeli on the back for the beige repaint job on his Dolores Street liquor store. Originally Mr. Kezeli painted the front of his building chartreuse, a color which offended many Carmelites. These citizens complained to the planning commission which appointed a committee to explain the color problem to owner Kezeli. "He was very kind in consenting to the change. He wanted to please the people of Carmel," according to Commissioner Florence Josselyn's report to other commissioner's last week.

Please the people of Carmel? Has anyone, ever? What about the ones who are looking glumly at the new paint job and grumbling, "But we LIKE chartreuse."

To the Carmel Pine Cone:

Will you PLEASE see that this is published before school starts, and several times afterwards, if possible?

If parents could see how their sons wear out the tires of the family car (or their own) by ROARING around the rough parking grounds at the Carmel High School—endangering lives as well—they would see that their sons WALKED to school.

A Teacher.

We'll publish it "the several times afterwards" also as requested. But doesn't this come under the police powers of the school administration?

Dr. Panunzio Seeks To Establish Association Of Emeritus Professors

BY C. EDWARD GRAVES

One of the pleasures of retirement from college work is following the careers of those students with whom one came into somewhat intimate contact in the course of a teaching career. An illustration of that fact is the cause of this little item.

Recently I received the first copy of a modest four-page publication entitled The Emeritus. The editor's name, Dr. Constantine Panunzio, recalled a somewhat diffident college student of mine who had recently come to this country from Italy. Although I was teaching him French, he had need at that time of considerable improvement in his English. He has gone on since than to get his Ph. D. degree in Sociology and has finally retired from a successful professorship at U.C.L.A.

Now he is sparking an organization to help retired faculty members in various ways. It is called American Association on Emeriti. He has enlisted on the Board of Directors such well-known personages as Drs. Guy Stanton Ford, Frank P. Graham, Edwin G. Nourse, James T. Shotwell and others.

The objectives stated briefly are as follows: 1. To assist retired college and university professors and administrators to find greater security, especially through their own efforts to become re-employed and self-sufficient; 2. To aid American institutions of higher education, that are faced by a baffling manpower shortage, to find additional mature, experienced research or teaching personnel during a critical national emergency; 3. To further the research and the publications of Emeriti members by helping to secure them fellowships and grants-in-aid; 4. To counsel in the improvement of academic retirement systems, many of which are made inadequate by inflation; 5. To give advice on meeting the housing needs of Emeriti; 6. to increase the well-being of Emeriti academic widows and other survivors.

Inquiries from those interested should be addressed to American Association on Emeriti, P. O. Box 24451, Los Angeles 24, Calif. Dr. Panunzio is a dedicated worker in this cause and it is to be hoped that he will get the necessary cooperative interest from former college faculty members.

Contest In Carmel Looms For Water District Board

Orval G. Mead, Mission Tract resident, filed nomination papers on August 29, last day for entering the race for the board of directors of the proposed Monterey Peninsula Water District. He opposes Newell A. Davies of Carmel Woods in District 4 which includes Carmel, Carmel Highlands, Carmel Woods, Pebble Beach precincts 4 and 6, Carmel Valley Precinct 1, and the Jacks Peak area. Election to form the proposed district and choose a board of directors is on November 4.

Councilman Everett May of Carmel and Councilwoman Marje Eliassen of Monterey are members of the steering committee to promote passage of the measure.

Running in the other four divisions of the proposed water district are: District 1, James Patton and James Ogle; District 2, C. J. Richardson and Ernest Barbour Jr.; District 3, Ed Coffin; District 5, Loring K. Warner and Thomas Montgomery.

Orval Mead has lived in Carmel since he was a year old. He graduated from both Carmel elementary and high schools before attending Santa Clara University as an accounting major. After graduating from college, he worked with a San Francisco accounting firm specializing in corporation work for three years, then as secretary-treasurer of a Los Angeles vacuum cleaning firm for a year, before returning to Carmel to open his own bookkeeping business. He is married and the father of one child.

Composers including Paul Hindemith, Walter Piston, William Schuman and Roy Harris have written special bass clarinet parts especially designed for him.

As personnel manager, Mazzeo shares the difficult job of screening, auditioning and placing under contract all replacements for the 107-member body. The low turnover in personnel of the Boston Symphony is a testimonial to efficiency in the personnel department.

Touring adds new responsibilities for orchestra officials concerned with management who, like Mazzeo, carry the weight of administration. On the orchestra's trip to Russia in 1956, it took along eight tons of baggage, all of which, of course, had to turn up in the right place at the right time.

Mazzeo enjoyed Russia, which he says was full of cordiality and music lovers. He spent two precious days of his limited time at the Eremitage in Leningrad, a storehouse of famous art treasures, and "would be delighted to go back to it."

Another favorite place for Mazzeo is Iceland where "the people are wonderful and the country beautiful."

Other musical duties for the New England-born clarinetist include serving on the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center, the summer school for musicians sponsored by the orchestra in conjunction with the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, and co-chairmanship of the woodwind department of the New England Conservatory of Music, where he also heads clarinet teaching and instructs advanced pupils in chamber music.

In his classes he has worked with many of the leading musicians in many of the country's symphonies and has been active in introducing difficult new works of contemporary composers.

For many years he was president of the Cambridge Society for Early Music and manager of the Zimbler Sinfonietta, which he took on a tour of South America for the State Department.

Sharing his vacation here this summer are Mrs. Mazzeo, Rima (her second Carmel trip), and Mrs. Mazzeo's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Roys of Seattle.

Mr. Roys is an archeologist specializing in Mayan culture. He has spent a number of years in Yucatan and his books are Carnegie publications.

Later this month, before he leaves the West Coast, Mazzeo will make a tour of coastal cities, from Los Angeles to Vancouver, for information and demonstration purposes regarding the Mazzeo System Clarinet, an improved and modified instrument developed by Mazzeo for improved fingering and for better tonal qualities on certain notes. (The clarinet is shown in the above picture.)

The new instruments, according to Mazzeo, are already in use by some Boston Symphony clarinetists and many other clarinetists in the country.

The Mazzeos, who recently purchased three and a half acres in Carmel Highlands for their future sojourns in this area, have been living on Monte Verde Street between Tenth and Eleventh Avenues.

Sunday School For Jewish Children Re-Opens Sept. 7

The Monterey Peninsula Jewish Community, Inc. announces that registration of Jewish children from 4 to 14 years of age for the 1958-59 sessions of Sunday School classes is now beginning.

The School, in its eighth year of operation, is open to children of both civilians and military personnel. Four classes are held each Sunday morning, beginning September 7, in Building 276, adjacent to ALS Headquarters at the Presidio, in Monterey.

Curriculum includes study of the Hebrew language, history, customs, holidays, ethics, culture, prayers, as well as current events.

Parents may register their children or obtain full information by phoning Arthur A. Winston, Superintendent, FR 2-7680 or writing to P. O. Box 51, Monterey.

Marjorie Coffin Married

Marjorie Pitkin Coffin, daughter of Mrs. Fielder Coffin of Bronxville, New York, and Philip Dorn Mathews of San Francisco were married on Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the Church of the Wayfarer by the Reverend Charles H. Burrill.

White chrysanthemums decorated the altar, lighted by white tapers, and standards of the same flowers were placed at each side of the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Fielder Coffin Jr. of Philadelphia, wore a ballerina length gown of white organza over pink satin. Seed pearl embroidery trimmed the fitted bodice of the dress, and the hem of the full skirt was bordered with Chantilly lace. A coronet of orange blossoms and pearls held her shoulder length veil in place, and she carried a spray of white butterfly orchids.

Mrs. E. Payton Thompson of Easton, Pennsylvania, was her attendant, wearing a yellow silk chiffon dress similar in style to that of the bride. She carried a bouquet of yellow Talisman roses.

The groom's father, Philip Strong Mathews of San Francisco, was best man. Ushers were Bruce Coffin of Cincinnati, the bride's brother, and Jack Torpey of San Francisco.

The reception following the wedding was held at Del Monte Lodge where Mrs. Coffin, the bride's mother, received the guests in a beige lace cocktail length gown and a corsage of gold orchids.

Mrs. Mathews, mother of the groom, was attired in a navy blue peau de soie dress with pink hat and accessories and a pink orchid corsage.

Pink and white chrysanthemums were placed around the reception room, while pink and white bouvardia and silver candelabra decorated the buffet tables and the cake table, with its many-tiered wedding cake topped with lilies of the valley. An orchestra played during the afternoon.

The young couple will live in San Francisco when they return from their honeymoon.

The bride, whose father was the late Fielder Coffin, is a graduate of Miss Master's School in Dobb's Ferry and Hollins College in Florida. A member of the Bronxville Junior League, she made her debut at the Westchester Cotillion. She is the cousin of Mrs. Chase Drake and her son Dyer Drake of Carmel.

The groom is a graduate of the College of San Mateo and San Jose State College. His uncles are General Frank Dorn of Carmel and Mr. Murray Mathews of Del Monte.

Mrs. Montague At Town House

Mrs. Nellie Murphy Montague, a former resident of Carmel for many years and now visiting here, will talk at the Carmel Foundation Town House on Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, taking as her subject: My Experiences as Curator of the Carmel Art Association Gallery. Tea will be served.

The Booklovers will meet on Monday afternoon, at 3:00 o'clock at the Carmel Foundation Town House. Blanche Tolmie, has been persuaded to talk about the Ben Greet Company of Shakespearian actors with whom she played and sang for several theatrical seasons. Guests are welcomed at all Booklover meetings.

Foreign Student Leaves

Simon Wadleigh, who arrived here last month from London to be this year's American Field Service exchange student at Carmel High School, left on Tuesday for Marblehead, Massachusetts, where he will attend school this year.

Ill-health of one of the members of the family, which was to entertain Simon in Carmel for this school year, caused the attending physician to advise the family against assuming added responsibilities at this time.

Carl Returns In October

A postcard from Carl Bensberg from Pirano in Jugoslavia reports he will be back in Carmel early in October. He was bathing in Pirano in the "clear warm water", and from his bedroom window on the waterfront, "can see Trieste and Italy quite clearly. Streets here are so narrow one can shake hands with a neighbor across the street. I'll go to Rome and Switzerland in September."

Symphony Guild Luncheon

Opening event of the Symphony Guild 1958-59 season, under the presidency of Mrs. Milton H. Shutes, will be a luncheon meeting at 1:00 o'clock in La Playa Hotel on September 11.

Representatives from the Monterey Peninsula Jazz Festival committee will be featured on the program along with pianist Roslyn Frantz who will present a program of contemporary music. Her husband, Monterey County Symphony Orchestra director Gregory Millar, will give a brief preview of the concert he will conduct on the October 5 afternoon program of the Jazz Festival. Mr. Millar's Festival orchestra presentations will show the correlation of jazz and symphonic music.

The Symphony Guild is in charge of selling all box seats for the Festival with proceeds to be used to support the Monterey County Symphony. Guild members will also be hostesses at the Hunt Club at the Fairgrounds during the Festival.

Institute Pupils Win Prizes

John and Patricia Cunningham, directors of the Carmel Art Institute, are proud that three of their former pupils carried off the first three prizes in the professional artists' oil painting class at the Monterey County Fair Art Show. Margo Tousey won first place in oils, $75, and the best in show award presented by the City and County of San Francisco. Her picture was entitled Notre Dame.

Joe Feuerborn won second place and $25 in oils for his painting Celebration and Margaret Brunn was third with Lake Lugano. Her prize was $10.

In the amateur oil painting class, Diana Law, another Art Institute student, won second place and $20 with Varied Still Life.

Other Carmel winners in the Art Show were Sam Colburn best in professional watercolors. His painting Nude Standing was given a $75 prize.

In sculpture William H. Gorham won a cash award of $75 for taking first place with his Motion No. 1.

Honorable mentions went to Marguerite G. McCarthy in the amateur oil class for her painting The Red Napkin and to S. C. Yuan for West Coast entered in the professional oil divinsion.

Clothilda C. Booth won a $45 first prize in the amateur watercolor class with her entry White Oak.

Big Sur first prize winner in the amateur oil division was Emilia Newell who was awarded $45 for Town. She also won honorable mention in the amateur watercolor class with Abstract.

Captain Luker In Jacksonville

Captain George Luker left Carmel last week and is now in Jacksonville, Florida, as chief of staff of the Naval Air Station. He spent this summer taking his ship the USS Lake Champlain on a tour of Northern European waters, then came to Carmel for a week before reporting to his new station. Mrs. Luker and her son, Ned, spent the summer here as guests of Mrs. Luker's mother, Mrs. Charles A. Stewart. Ned drove back to Florida with his father to enter Bowles School, Mrs. Luker follows tomorrow. Ann Luker, who has spent the summer in Europe, will join her family in Jacksonville, too, before coming West to continue her studies at the University of Oregon.

Carmel Artist Wins Prize

Rollin Pickford, Jr., won first prize with his picture Retreat in the twenty-eighth watercolor and pastel art exhibition of the Santa Cruz Art League. He is exhibiting another picture, Piano Concerto, in the show of 50 entries chosen from several hundred submitted selections. The show is on exhibit throughout September in the Santa Cruz Art League Gallery.

Other Carmel artists exhibiting their work in the show are Mildred D. Schmidtman, Snug Harbor; Helen M. Barker, Carmel Valley Art Gallery; Donna F. Davis, December on the Dunes; Laura Maxwell, Still Life; and Nell Walker Warner, Up For Air.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

Plants are as temperamental as humans. In years past, I have always lifted my delphiniums in late July and placed them well under ground in an off spot in the garden. All they have ever required has been a slight watering occasionally. Formerly, these delphinium plants have been reasonable and remained dormant until the spring, when I would lift the plants, separate them and make two or three new plants from one old one. And what has happened this year? They have defied my ukase to "go to sleep." Those delphinium plants have pushed themselves up out of three inches of soil that covered them and have started blooming like all outdoors. What am I going to do with them? I can't shut them up again now that they are furnishing the garden with late and beautiful color, and I know they won't shut up even if I cover them again. Oh well. A foreign lady visited my garden recently and I was telling her my troubles with my delphiniums. Her neat remark by way of sympathy, is illuminating, for she said, "Kippy, that is something up with which you ought not to have to put."

Hearing Wednesday Before Planners On 3 Motel Amendments

The Carmel Planning Commission will hold a public hearing Wednesday at 4:00 o'clock in city hall on three proposed motel control amendments to the interim zoning ordinance. They were sent to the commission last week by the city council when it turned down the 40-60 site coverage amendment at its second reading.

Two of the proposed amendments are variants of the rejected 40-60, the third is an ordinance written by Thomas K. Perry, executive secretary for the C-2 Property Owners Association and is sponsored by that organization.

One of the 40-60 variants differs from the original only in that it contains a "grandfather" clause which exempts existing motels and other multiple dwellings built prior to October, 31, 1955 from the 40-60 restrictions if the property should be destroyed by fire, for example, and the owner wishes to rebuild.

The other 40-60 variant also has the grandfather clause and, in addition, eliminates the limitation of one unit per 1000 square feet of site as specified in the original amendment.

Both limit site coverage to 60 percent, the remainder to be devoted to off street parking and landscaping.

The C-2 Property Owners Association amendment leaves site coverage to the discretion of the planning commission, each case to be decided individually according to type and size of building, topography of site, density of construction in the vicinity, width and classification of street upon which the site abuts, etc.

Water Debate at BA Dinner

The Carmel Business Association will hear the water district proposition debated at its quarterly dinner meeting September 11 at La Playa Hotel.

Program Chairman George Yates has arranged for Ed Coffin, who favors a municipal water district for the Peninsula, and Dan Searle, who does not, to give ten minute talks on the subject.

New members to be announced are: Carmel Dress Shop, Carmel Florist, Irving Lundborg, The Modern Eve, Profil Du Monde and Surf n' Sand.

Boyer Reports On Mexican Village Literacy Center

week, men who have never learned to read. Don't ever say that musicians and painters can't be versatile!

The work of these literacy centers around the world is doing more to spread good will and genuinely to help the people to help themselves than any other programs I know. As their ability to read develops so does their knowledge of sanitation, health, better crops, and innumerable other subjects. They become better and more competent citizens. In addition, they think of us in the U.S.A. not as tossing them a haughty piece of bread but as kind members of a family trying to help them to improve their own abilities. This is the right kind of propaganda. I do hope our countrymen will realize the importance of these centers and support them financially and spiritually. When I return in the fall I will be starting a drive for funds for this purpose.

During this spring Dr. Frank Laubach, well-known literacy pioneer who has started literacy programs all over the world and made pictorial charts for teaching 263 languages, spoke in Carmel. I was not able to attend because of a Carmel Music Society meeting. However, Louise and Bobby and Frances heard him and came home quite enthused and with much literature about his work in India and many countries of the world. Upon reading the literature I became very much interested and wrote him a letter in appreciation of his wonderful humanitarian work and expressing our desire to help in some way.

One of his exponents, Dr. Richard Cortright, now of Baylor University, Waco, Texas, and a man of considerable experience in literacy all over the world, was giving a course in literacy in Berkeley, California, from July 3 to July 27 (August 1). The Bach Festival activities were at their height from July 8 to 22 so you can imagine our lives chasing back and forth between Carmel and Berkeley 130 miles away. We skipped most of the numerous Bach social dinners, receptions, breakfasts, and only attended the rehearsals and concerts in which I was playing or assisting in some capacity. It turned out to be one of the most rewarding courses we had ever taken, in addition, giving us actual experience in teaching illiterates in Spanish and English. The light which springs into their eyes as people begin to realize that they can read is a thrill to see! I'm sure you all know what the ability to read means. Low income, early mortality and poor health conditions all accompany illiteracy. Once a person can read he raises his level immeasurably as has been proven by the many literacy centers in the world. India's Literacy House being an excellent example.

We had known of Dr. Laubach's work from Margaret Lee Runbeck, a close friend of Louise's for many years. When she returned from India and later from Egypt, we heard her glowing reports of help being given the people by this literacy program. She also wrote of her love of the people of India and the great need for stories for new literates in India which is the work she did before she passed on last year. Some of her love for the Indian people and her insight into their lives is expressed in her book of last year, The Year of Love, which I highly recommend as a touchingly beautiful book with a true message.

During the course at Berkeley Dr. Cortright mentioned that a new center had started in Valle de Bravo, Mexico, about 100 miles west of Mexico City. He was quite impressed with what was being accomplished in this Casa de Alfabetizacion and suggested that any interested people write to Tom (Mr. Thomas) in charge of the Mexican project. We wrote, offering our volunteer services after the Bach Festival. He wrote back welcoming our offers of help and suggesting ways in which Louise's art background could be of help and my background could be utilized also. Accordingly, we decided to come down, and already it has become a most rewarding experience, but more about that later.

Frustration Is Norberg's Lot On May Night

Swim and Joe Broadman spoke in favor of non-residents serving on the art commission board.

Francis Whitaker reminded the council that the signers of the petition were preservers of the Carmel tradition; that allowing outsiders to serve on boards and committees was contrary to tradition, and was such an important matter that if the council did not want to adopt a policy about it, it should be put on the ballot as a referendum measure.

Councilman May made a motion that the Arts Commission ordinance be referred back to committee for study, and the rest of the council, except Norberg, voted yes. Since the ordinance establishing the forestry commission, scheduled for first reading, also provides for non-resident members on the board, the council referred this back to committee, too.

Another item on the agenda was Francis Whitaker's suggestion that instead of establishing a Forest Commission, the city retain a professional forester in advisory capacity on retainer basis. Council said the committee could consider this proposal, also.

The atmosphere changed. Suddenly it was May Night. Councilman May proposed two possible ways of regulating the number of liquor stores and bars in Carmel, density control and an ordinance to limit the hours of doing business in buffer or transitional zones. (What buffer zones? Has the council adopted the Adams' mystery plan on a tree inspection tour?) He suggested that the proposals be referred to the planning commission for study and it was so done.

Councilman May described the war that is raging among the directors of the garbage district. One faction wants to acquire a Dano composting plant; the other wants to buy land to continue the present dump and cover system. According to Councilman May Dano is wonderful for European garbage, but no good for ours, while our dump and cover system is a model among fanciers throughout the state. Monterey city council has passed a resolution favoring the dump and cover. Does our council wish to do likewise?

The council assured Mr. May that they had every confidence in his ability to represent Carmel's best interest on the garbage board and whatever the stand he takes is all right with them.

Mr. May then informed the council that they may have been hasty in passing a resolution approving the University of California's announced intention of building a college in the Central Coast Counties.

The University of California is seriously considering sites in Del Monte Forest and the mouth of Carmel Valley, he said. The impact on Carmel of a university in these locations would be tremendous. He proposed that the council direct the planning commission to look into it.

Councilman Allen Knight suggested that Mayor John Chitwood, (USN Ret.) pump Admiral Spruance about what sites are under consideration.

that the property owners of our city are paying at least 12 percent more for their fire insurance than they should do if water needs were properly serviced." The letter concludes with a request for an answer before the October 8 council meeting.

May said this was an instance to illustrate the need of a municipal water district, which he thought, the council should support.

Gunnar Norberg said that as an individual he felt that putting the proposition on the ballot at this time is "precipitate action because insufficient study has been made of the 14 possible forms of districts."

The mayor also had condemned the "precipitate action" when it was first undertaken, contending that not enough cost study had been made, but later he passed petitions to put the proposition on the ballot. So far he has made no public statement as to the reasons for his change of mind. Last night he said nothing to clarify his position, other than to propose that a vote be taken on a resolution of approval at a later meeting.

Council unanimously approved sending the letter to the water company, after City Attorney John Morse worriedly pointed out that water pressure for fire protection should not be involved in a political issue. This letter should be sent regardless of the move for a municipal district. Nevertheless, he pointed out that if the council postponed declaring what are its sentiments regarding the municipal district, it might get a prompter answer from the water company.

Council Approves James Buffington's Street Schedule

Councilman James Buffington received approval for his street maintenance program for 1958-59, which will cost in materials $7,012.30. Scheduled for seal-coating (crushed rock and oil treatment) are the following streets: Junipero from Tenth to Twelfth, from Fourth to Fifth, from Camino Del Monte to Third, from First to Alta, Seventh from Junipero to Mission, Santa Fe from Third to Fourth, Fourth from Santa Fe to Torres, Second from Carpenter to Monterey, First from Torres to Monterey, Mission from First to Fifth, Dolores from Second to Fourth, Third from Dolores to Lincoln, Fifth from Dolores to Monte Verde, Lincoln from Fourth to Seventh, Palou from Monte Verde to Second, Casanova from Palou to Second, Torres from Mountain View to Eleventh, Tenth from San Carlos to Casanova, Monte Verde from Ocean to Eighth.

By resolution, the council designated City Clerk L. D. Rose the "responsible city official" empowered to acquire surplus federal property for civil defense purposes; authorized a loading zone in front of Hofsas House on San Carlos at Third; established a limited, 20-minute, parking zone at Oak Tree Lodge on Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth to "ease problem of obstructed access to off-street parking area;" confirmed Walter P. Boyle's status as a regular police officer since he has completed his probationary period; and ratified the following schedule for advances to city officers and employees for travel expenses: $14 a day subsistence, cost of bus or railroad tickets, or if private automobile is used, eight cents a mile for distances under 100 miles; otherwise six cents a mile.

The council approved travelling expenses for City Clerk L. D. Rose's one day trip to Santa Barbara this month to attend the League of California Cities Administrative Manual Conference. Mr. Rose is one of a committee of five appointed by the league to work up a manual for the guidance of city clerks and other city administrators. The committee has approved the Carmel City Council Meeting Agenda forms for inclusion in the manual.

Travelling expenses were approved also for Carmel Fire Chief Robert Smith and Fire Marshall Robert Leidig to attend the International Fire Chiefs Convention in Los Angeles September 14 - 19.

The Forest Theater Guild was given permission to use the theater two more week ends for repeat performances of Paint Your Wagon providing they produce the $7.00 per night fee to cover cost of policing traffic and the usual $5.00 deposit to pay for utilities.

The following expenditures, previously budgeted, were approved: for the city clerk's office, a water heater plus installation costs; $200; photocopying machine, $300; continuance of minutes index, $300; for the building inspector's office, file cabinets, $105 and typewriter, $250; for the fire department, replacement hose, $1200, FM radio equipment, $450, water heater, $120, tiles for firehouse floor, upstairs, $600, materials for counter, $225.

Tour of inspection decisions: Maurice Handell may remove a pine at Monte Verde, east side between Ninth and Tenth and replant it, since a new driveway will leave it above grade. Mrs. Margaret Leachman, Carmelo and Seventh, may not trim a yew. It does not constitute an obstruction to her driveway. Since roots of three pine trees are causing the damage to the sidewalk at the northeast corner of San Carlos and Fifth, the city will assume cost of repair. Request for a two-hour limit parking zone on Fourth Avenue between San Carlos and Mission was denied; also denied, permission for Town House to maintain a sales gallery in their club room, which is in the residence district, because of conflict with zoning regulations and danger of establishing trouble-making precedent. The traffic congestion on San Antonio and Eighth, cause of complaint by Mrs. F. M. Reinmund, will be solved by trimming back a bush, council decided.
